Top Of The Morning

WEATHER

It's a great weekend for picnics, sightseeing, boating—or just staying at home, if the potential for traffic accidents makes you cautious. The forecast is for fair and mild weather today and mostly sunny weather tomorrow, with no chance of rain. The high today is expected to be around 79 and the high tomorrow around 84. The low for tonight about 55. Yesterday's 7 a.m. report: electrical interruption in parts of Warren borough for one hour due to lightning; .73 inches of rain; high of 84, low of 53; and the river at 4.5 and rising.

A look behind the coded map in the borough's Master Plan appears in the Feature Section of today's TMO. Also in today's feature tabloid is a look at the two new Tidoute overlooks, which will be dedicated Thursday; today's society news; the television schedules for the week; the playgrounds schedule and results; and many other items. Four persons were injured in the most serious accident in the area yesterday. The head-on collision near Kane put a Tiona woman, her twin sons, and a Ludlow woman in the hospital in Kane, where they were reported in "fairly good condition," Page One.

PENNSYLVANIA

In Philadelphia a patrolman was jailed for "looking bored" in the courtroom while waiting to testify in a case. His explanation—he had worked 14 straight days, attended a funeral and worked all night long before appearing in court—made no difference to the judge, who refused to comment on the matter. Fellow policemen set about establishing the fact that "police-men have as many rights as criminals," Page One.

Automation has drastically cut employment in Pennsylvania's coal-mining regions, but the mines are still working. In one case, the coal leaves the mine on a conveyor belt and goes straight into a power plant. Page A2.

NEW YORK STATE

Governor George Romney of Michigan, the strongest hopeful for the 1968 Republican presidential campaign, spoke at Chautauqua last night in what he termed a "lecture" on foreign policy. His statements, while not specific, seemed to hint at isolationist policies. He said private groups, businesses, and individuals could do more for foreign aid than the government. Page One.

Another governor, Nelson Rockefeller of New York, hinted he may ask for increased taxes next year because the lottery system begun this year is not measuring up to expectations. He may face a tough go of it—the Legislature will consider it during an election year, when they are wary of increasing taxes. Page One.

THE NATION

The 45,000 or more troops needed in Vietnam, and earmarked for that war-torn country by President Johnson, will come from the selected reserve force, the Pentagon disclosed yesterday. The force is made up largely of National Guard units, including the 28th of Pennsylvania. Page One.

THE WORLD

Vietnam was quiet on the ground, but aircraft made a record high number of visits to North Vietnam to bomb the Hanoi-Haliphong areas. One plane was brought down, raising to 635 the number lost since the war began. Page A3.

SPORTS

The Warren Beverage Baseball Club hosts Ferraro Ford for a doubleheader here tomorrow with first place in the Glenwood League riding on the outcome. The Fordmen defeated Bihler Tires last night and are only one-half game behind the league-leading Beveragemen. Page A6.

Romney Hints Isolation

BY E.W. KENWORTHY

(c) N.Y. Times News Service CHAUTAUQUA, N.Y. — Gov. George Romney said last night that the United States must show "much greater ingenuity and drive" in getting private capital and industry to apply their resources to the economic development of the poor nations.

In an address here on the Chautauqua summer lecture series—a venerable institution dating back to 1874—Romney said:

"I believe that America must undertake an effort in international development sufficient to overcome the inertia, suspicions and hostility of the other peoples of the earth."

The Michigan Governor, who is generally regarded as in the forefront of potential contenders for the Republican presidential nomination next year, expressed concern at the staggering increase in the population of underdeveloped nations, their continuing illiteracy and poor health and the slowness with which long-term capital was flowing to them from the richer countries of the Northern Hemisphere.

"The underdeveloped areas of the world hold a menacing potential for violence, even anarchy," he said. "They are a vacuum which can encourage both external aggression and internal adventurism."

While saying that governments had an important role to play in economic development of the disadvantaged nations, Romney said, "most of the economic development aid which flows from this country to the needy nations of the world should be private rather than governmental."

At the outset of his address, which he characterized as "a lecture" in the tradition of the Chautauqua assembly, Romney said that the "basic national objective" of the United States government must be "the moral and economic progress of our own people."

A fortnight after the riots in Detroit which led to his asking President Johnson for federal troops to put down the violence, Romney said that the "tragic events of these last weeks—the looting, burning and near warfare in major cities across the country—can leave no doubt" about what the nation's primary objective should be.

"We cannot hope for progress peace and order among the nations of the world if we cannot bring progress, peace and order to the cities of America," the Republican governor declared. "We cannot inspire others if we degrade ourselves."

Although Romney devoted almost all of his lecture to foreign affairs, he did not deal at length with the most exigent problems now confronting the Johnson Administration.

14 DAYS ON JOB

Tired Patrolman Jailed by Judge

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A patrolman, who said he came off 14 straight days of duty and more than 20 hours without sleep to testify at a trial, was jailed for slouching in his seat and "looking bored."

Highway patrolman Cosmo Arcaro spent some 90 minutes in jail before Police Commissioner Frank L. Rizzo heard about the incident and had Arcaro released in his custody. Rizzo then gave the 24-year-old patrolman a day off.

County Judge Michael J. O'Donnell yesterday ordered Arcaro held without bail for contempt of court after court attendants reported that Arcaro, whose grandmother was buried

We're All Equal, President Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Millions of Americans are still barred from full participation in the American dream," President Johnson said yesterday in swearing in a new chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. "We are all equal before God. We are all equal in the eyes of the law, and if I have anything to do about it, we are all going to be equal to seeking a job," Johnson said.

'CAN'T GIVE ME ANYTHING BUT AMERICA'

Blind Gardener Carries on Work

BY GORDON MAHAN

Inar G. Olsen, 539 E. Main street, Youngsville, grows roses for a hobby. So do lots of other people.

What's different, though, is that Mr. Olsen has been blind for the past several years. But he manages to do all the chores that are associated with gardening on a modest scale on his own.

He was born in Bjornholm, Denmark, an island in the North Sea off the European coast. He emigrated with his family to this country when he was 14 years old and has resided in the Youngsville area since Depression times.

A crane operator at the National Forge, for more than 20 years, he retired seven years ago because of his failing eyesight. During the time he worked at the Forge, he moonlighted by selling shrubs and flowers throughout the county.

Intensely patriotic, he raises the American flag every nice day in his garden partly to influence his grandchildren. He says, "You can't give me anything but America," and "I guess it takes a foreigner to appreciate this country."

He deplores situations which depict our national heritage. His granddaughter, Joy Darling, died in 1963 while serving with the Peace Corps. He participates and continues his education through the Talking Books program and commented that he had to send a couple of them back because they were too dirty. He says he never went to high school and this is a great way to get an education.

He also says that what you lose in one respect, you gain in another, obviously referring to his blindness.

Altogether he maintains approximately 40 rose plants, mostly of floribunda varieties, in addition to several decorative shrubs and trees near their home.

FOR ADDITIONAL VIETNAM TROOPS

Plan Reserves Callup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration will draw from the nation's strategic reserve to fill out the newly authorized 525,000-man strength level for Vietnam, Pentagon spokesmen confirmed yesterday.

The strategic reserve is a part of the regular active-duty forces.

The bulk of the additional 45,000 to 50,000 troops to go to Vietnam after the previously approved 450,000-man level is reached in October will come from existing active units of the strategic reserve force, officials said.

This force presently includes two brigades of the 191st Airborne Division in Kentucky, the 82nd Airborne Division in North Carolina, the 1st and 2nd Armored Divisions in Texas and the 5th Mechanized Division in Colorado.

In addition to these divisions, the strategic reserve includes the 6th Armored Cavalry Regiment in Maryland, the 11th Infantry Brigade in Hawaii and the 198th Infantry Brigade in Texas. The 198th already has been designated to go to Vietnam this year.

The strength of the major strategic reserve units totals about 83,000 officers and men.

There are also smaller independent artillery, engineer, ordnance and signal units located around the United States.

As a matter of policy, the Pentagon does not identify specific units until they reach Vietnam.

Pentagon spokesmen would not say what effect the decision to draw from the strategic reserve would have on draft calls in coming months. Earlier yesterday, the Pentagon had discounted reports that these calls might reach 35,000 a month in the final quarter of the year.

It is known that while operating under the 480,000-man force level for Vietnam, it had been planned to call about 24,000 a month throughout the fiscal year which began in July. Calls announced for August and September were 29,000 and 25,000, respectively.

The strategic reserve force exists as a back-up for American units deployed overseas and for use in contingencies arising elsewhere in the world.

Any diminishing of this force may stir considerable controversy in Congress where there have been expressions of concern in the past over the state of the continental-based units.

Gavin Quits Job Over LBJ Policy

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Retired Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, a World War II paratroop commander who became an ambassador to France, then a business executive, quit a state Democratic party post yesterday over Vietnam.

"I simply cannot support President Johnson for reelection in 1968," the 57-year-old Gavin said, resigning from the state Democratic Advisory Council.

Gavin rejected suggestions that he might run for president himself. He said he was "not concerned with running for president at this time."

Gavin is president of Arthur D. Little, Inc., a Cambridge research firm. He resigned from the Army in 1958 in disagreement over Army missile policy.

In his letter of resignation, Gavin said: "Conditions, in my opinion, have continued to deteriorate in Southeast Asia and, unhappily, the conditions that I foresaw are now coming to pass."

"Widespread burning, rioting and looting in our cities makes it obvious that we have been misdirecting our resources and energies to Southeast Asia for the past five years, when we should have been taking care of our domestic problems at home," Gavin continued. Another member of the council, Prof. John Kenneth Galbraith of Harvard, said he agreed "completely" with Gavin's decision.

"I do not intend to resign," Galbraith said, "for it has long been my feeling that one should stay in the party and fight this hideous nonsense (the war), including our increasingly ridiculous involvement with the circus democracy of Marshal Ky."

Damages totaling $2145 resulted when a Jeep with its driver and two passengers went out of control, tipped over and struck a parked car at the intersection of Crescent Park and Onelda on Warren's southside at 5:13 yesterday afternoon. Borough police, who investigated the accident, said it occurred as the Jeep came off the Hickory street bridge and the operator started east on Crescent, but was moving too fast to negotiate the sharp curve. As the vehicle turned over it struck a legally parked car belonging to Assunta Lucia of 128 Crescent Park. The driver of the Jeep, Clarence M. Lindell, 29, of 520 Crescent Park and the two passengers, Dean Stauff of the Exchange Hotel and Allen Stauff of Egypt Hollow road, were taken to the Warren General Hospital by the Warren Borough police where they were treated and released.

The only case considered in County court yesterday involved the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania vs. Donald W. Deitz of RD 1, Clarion, Deitz, a certified public accountant with clients in the Warren area contested a charge of improperly approaching an intersection on the three lane highway in North Warren and making a left turn at the corner of Route 62 and Beech street on April 5, 1967. Representing Deitz was attorney, W. Scott Calderwood and representing the Commonwealth was District Attorney Samuel Bonavita. Following the testimony of the defendant and arresting officer, Trooper John Barnes, Judge Alexander C. Flick Jr. found Deitz guilty as charged and imposed the statutory fine of $10.

A. 1st Infantry, will hold a special meeting at the Armory, Monday at 7 p.m. Boys aged 14 and older from the Warren area are invited to attend the meeting and parents are also invited. Topic to be discussed will be the Post specialty rifle marksmanship. Also being considered is photography. It is not necessary to have been in Scouting previously.

Warren YMCA youth director, Ken Hale, yesterday announced both weeks of Resident Camp on Lake Chautauque, the last two weeks of August, have been filled to capacity. The local YMCA uses Camp Onyasha, owned by the Jamestown YMCA, located in Dewittville, New York, approximately 15 miles from Jamestown. The camp has facilities for all camping activities, including archery, crafts, nature, riflery, fitness course, golf course, canoeing, boating, swimming, hiking, over-nights, power-boating, sailing, water skiing, out-of-camp trips and others.

Senator Richard Frame voted yes on the eight bills brought before the state Senate this week and was with the majority in each case as they all were passed by that group.

SKI RAMP SCHUSSES AWAY

The Spirit of '67, a ramp used in the Fourth of July celebration water-ski show, revived some of its spirit last evening and broke away from its moorings near the hospital and started down the river. Borough firemen were summoned with their boat to rescue the wayward ramp, but when they arrived a group of men had thrown lines on it and secured it near the railroad bridge on the west end of town. BUT THEY'RE STILL WORKING

Automation Has Reduced Jobs
In State's Coal Mining Areas

SHELOCTA, Pa. (AP) — At the huge new Keystone power plant, which will produce more electricity than most nations, a conveyor belt rumbles directly from the coal mine to the fire boxes. It is a symbol of the highly automated approach to coal mining that years of belt tightening have dictated. The tens of thousands of miners who lost their jobs with the collapse of King Coal—440,000 at work in 1946 versus 125,000 now—cannot expect to return to the pits. Despite a sudden revival in the long-dormant coal industry caused almost exclusively by the demands of the power industry, the number of jobs is not increasing proportionately. For instance, Keystone and a companion plant at Homer City, also in Indiana County, will boost the amount of coal mined in the area from 30 million tons in 1955 to 50 million tons in 1972. The size of the mining force will inch from 10,000 to 13,000. In addition, the companies are looking for skilled hands who can operate machines that drill, blast and load eight to ten tons of coal a minute—electricians, mechanics and supervisors. Most of the old pick and shovel men are gone anyway. In fact there is a shortage of miners. Penn State is running a mining school at Elders Ridge in the heart of the state's coal fields. The average miner earns $29 a day for 240 days or about $7,000 a year, plus 18 paid holidays and $800 in fringe benefits. The shortage of help means plenty of overtime and a $13,000 wage is not uncommon. One miner, for example, works 20 minutes overtime on his lunch break, 30 minutes at the end of the day and an occasional extra day and earned $9,950 in 1966. Keystone, with its 1,300,000 kilowatt capacity, is a prototype of the new mine-mouth power plants that are opening markets for coal. But another reason the power industry will become coal's biggest customer for the first time this year is the unit train. "The railroad doesn't have to split trains," says John S. Todhunter of Barnes & Tuelor Coal Co. of Barnesboro, Pa., a pioneer in the field. "It can leave locomotives right on the trains and it knows exactly when the cars will be ready, when filled, when they'll arrive and when they should return," he says. The unit train moves coal quickly and cheaply to the traditional generating stations near the big cities. The electric utility market, says Todhunter, "is practically the salvation of the commercial coal mines in Pennsylvania. 'I think the coal industry is solid now,' he says. "Over the next 20 years, we'll have to share a lot of the market with oil, nuclear power and gas. But it's a good business if you have the organization, engineering and reserves. "But I'll tell you, it's not going to be the kind of operation where every Tom, Dick and Harry can open a hole in the ground and say he's a coal producer."

Romney

For example, he did not deal at length with Vietnam beyond saying that "our preoccupation with Vietnam has infected many important relationships in other areas of the world," and that as long as the Vietnam war continues, there would be "strict limits" on the improvement of relations with the Soviet Union. Nor did the Governor deal at length with the problems left in the wake of the Arab-Israeli war five weeks ago. Rather his address — which he began by saying "I want to speak with you tonight about American leadership in the world"—was couched largely in general observations and recommendations. Romney said that "international communism is no longer a monolith; that Communist ideology has been compromised by 'nationalistic interests and the pressures of reality.' On the other hand, he said that "The Soviet Union still seeks to extend its power and influence wherever possible," and therefore "we delude ourselves if we count on any real change in the near future in Soviet behavior or intention." He said that the U.S. had properly been concerned with the danger of aggression and had been right in attempting to "act as a badly-needed deterrent to international discord—as a vital force for world stability." But while the U.S. "should oppose Communist expansion," he said, he feared that "we are slipping too far into the role of trying to solve all problems," and that "we are in danger of spreading our resources too thin." In conclusion, Romney listed "four priority tools" for the conduct of "purposeful" foreign relations. First, he said the U.S. must maintain "an assured strategic retaliatory capability to deter a nuclear attack," while maintaining conventional military forces for brushfire situations. Second, he said that the U.S. must concentrate on improving international institutions. Third, he advocated that the U.S. find new and better ways to use the tremendous wealth and technological experience of the affluent northern nations to develop the poverty-stricken southern nations. Lastly, he said that the Executive Branch of the government must more effectively consult with Congress on foreign affairs.

Floridans
Nabbed by
Kane SPs

A Florida husband and wife wanted for armed robbery were apprehended yesterday by state police of the Kane barracks after a tip by the sheriff's office in Dade County, Florida. Taken into custody were Harland Francis Dawson, 22 and his wife Tarnara Lee, also 22, of Opalocha, Florida. Police said they received a call yesterday morning from the sheriff of Dade County, Florida, saying they had information stating the two suspects were headed for Port Allegany in McKean County where the couple has relatives. Acting on the tip, Corporal Cipollini and Trooper Mikic of the Kane sub-station, along with assistance from assistant state game warden Philip Young, picked up the pair and committed them to the McKean County Jail where they will await further action by Florida authorities. The armed robbery by the pair was believed to have taken place sometime last week.

ON RIOT CONTROL

National Guard
Receives Memo

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — A memorandum listing a number of lessons in riot control learned during the riots in Newark and Detroit last month has been sent by the Department of the Army to the continental army command for distribution to National Guard units. The four-page memorandum, military officials said, was the initial result of a study of the riots now being conducted by Army staff officers. The study is being done in response to President Johnson's order that the National Guard be given more adequate anti-riot training and because military officials believe that the intense use of home-made fire bombs and the great deal of sniping encountered in both cities are new elements which necessitate better control techniques. Since the riots, reserve forces staff officers from Army headquarters here and the Continental Army Command have been interviewing Army and National Guard commanders and police officials who participated in combating the riots in both cities. Lt. Gen. John Throckmorton, commander of the 18th Airborne Corps, who took charge of the 4,700 paratroopers and 3,000 National Guardsmen used to suppress the Detroit riot, was interviewed at length Thursday in the Pentagon. The series of interviews is the first phase of the study. Throckmorton and other responsible officials are in the process of drawing up formal, written reports which will be used for further analysis. Among the lessons issued in the memorandum are: —The necessity to ensure that troops and police treat all civilians fairly and that they strictly follow orders on use of weapons. —The need for troops and police at all echelons to report promptly what they see in their sectors so commanders have the information needed to make decisions. —Use of non-lethal tear gas shells or small teams of marksmen to suppress snipers rather than mass firing by large groups of police and troops. —The necessity to familiarize troops with firefighting equipment so that if firemen are wounded by snipers or otherwise disabled the troops can carry on with the fire-fighting. —The need for adequate illumination at night by searchlights or simply street lights in order to locate and suppress snipers. —The need to saturate areas where looting and rioting is going on with large numbers of troops and police as quickly as possible in order to gain control of the situation.

Muslims Blamed
In Buffalo Riots

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Buffalo, N.Y. Police commissioner testified yesterday that prior to some civil disturbances there beginning June 26, Black Muslims and Black Nationalists had been attempting to foment trouble. Commissioner Frank M. Felicitella told the Senate Judiciary Committee that he would not call the disturbances a riot. But he also testified that agitators from Detroit and Ohio had come into the city before the trouble. "I think they've made themselves pretty scarce since then," he said. In answer to a question by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., Felicitella said "I'd like to believe it is over, but I'd be a fool if I told you it isn't going to happen again." Felicitella said that at a fundraising carnival on May 3 at the YMCA in the heart of the Negro area police observed three Black Muslims—"complete strangers"—talking to a group of youngsters, some of whom later broke windows in several business establishments. And in telling of other incidents that preceded the June 26 outbreak, he said that a man who represented himself as a volunteer worker for Vista, the domestic peace corps, rented an apartment in which pop bottles filled with gasoline were found later. On the walls, he said were a lot of black power pictures. The commission also read from a police investigation report about a man he referred to only "Mr. X," since a court case against him is pending. He said that Mr. X was a Puerto Rican Negro and an alleged Black Nationalist who apparently came to Buffalo from New York City solely to engage in arson, extortion and incitement to riot. The report quoted police informants as saying the man directed youngsters 13 to 16 years of age in making and throwing fire bombs and incited them to burn down white-owned business establishments in hopes of buying them at bargain prices. Felicitella described Mr. X as "a prominent figure in the recent disorders" and quoted an informant as saying a man to whom Mr. X gave money paid "kids $2 for each molotov cocktail they threw." At one point in reading from the report, Felicitella referred to Mr. X as Martin, but he said that was the man's first—not his last name. The police commissioner said another statement received by police from a Negro youth told of a Black Muslim teacher offering youths $1 for every window they broke. Felicitella said that responsible Negro leaders had done their best to help put down the disorders. He also told of a letter received "from a Negro gentleman" advising the police that if they would shoot down a few of the troublemakers, they would have no more trouble.

Antipoverty Program Attacked in Senate

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — President Johnson's embattled anti-poverty program, reported to be in deep trouble in Congress, came under further attack yesterday in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The Office of Economic Opportunity brought the Rev. J. P. Paschall Davis, chairman of the Metro Action Commission in Nashville, Tenn., to Washington to deny a charge that federal funds were being used to subsidize a "liberation school" where hatred of whites was alleged to have been taught.

This the Rev. Davis did under intense questioning. But he confirmed that the agency, which is funded by the OEO had a contract with the school. He said no payments had been made pending clearance by a committee set up to see if the school was complying with federal regulations.

Davis also confirmed the testimony of a Nashville police captain John A. Sorace, that a government-leased station wagon had been turned over to the school's director, Fred Brooks, who also is chairman of the Nashville chapter of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee.

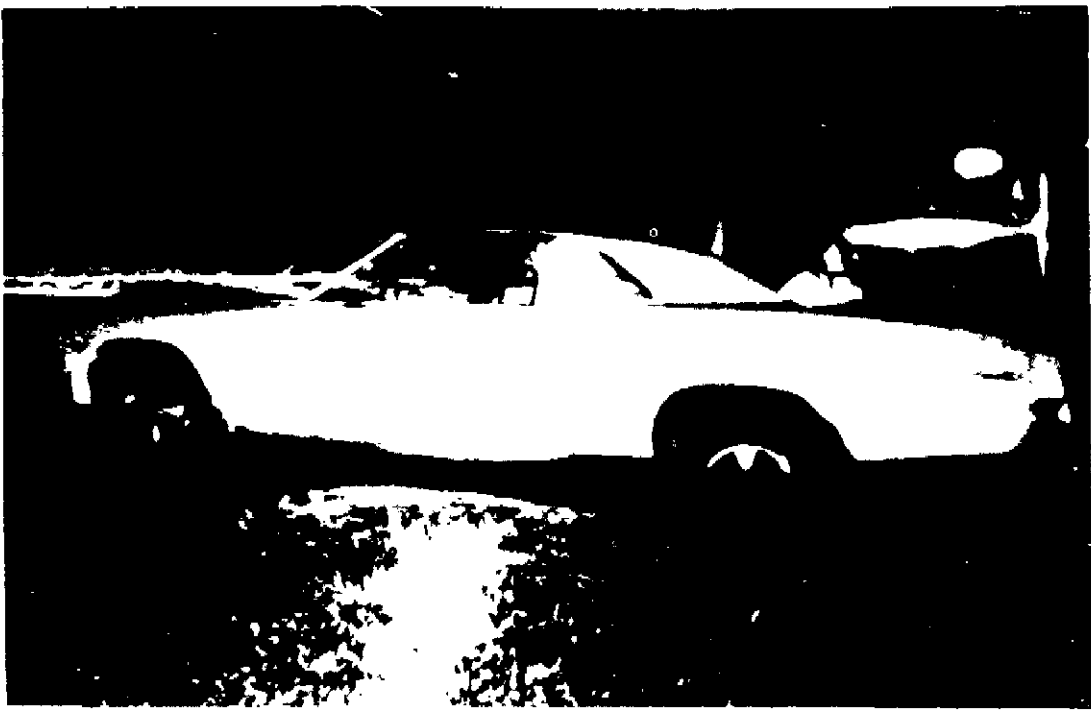

Earlier in the day a Negro detective from Newark, N.J., charged that antipoverty workers in his city contributed to the explosive atmosphere that could have brought about Newark's five-day riot last month.

At the end of the day two Democratic senators, Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Philip A. Hart of Michigan, asked the chairman, James O. Eastland, D-Miss., to change the procedures in the hearings so that "truth may catch up with lies more speedily." But Eastland made no response to the request and announced that the hearings will resume Monday with more police officials as witnesses.

Kennedy and Hart are concerned about the prospects of renewal of the antipoverty program by the present Congress. The judiciary committee has no jurisdiction in the program. The current hearings are on a House-passed bill that would make it a crime to cross state lines or use the facilities of interstate commerce for the purpose of inciting violence.

Thursday, Sorace, who testified in behalf of the bill, dropped a bombshell on the OEO when he charged that the agency was subsidizing those who had been fomenting riots in Nashville.

ACCIDENT RESULTS AS DRIVER FALLS ASLEEP

Paul Johnston Jr., of 14 Verbeck street was taken to the Warren General Hospital treated and released after falling asleep at the wheel and losing control of his auto striking a utility pole in the 1500 block of Pennsylvania avenue East at 1:50 a.m. yesterday, causing damages totaling $2,450. Borough police said Johnston was traveling east on Penna. ave. when he fell asleep and struck a pole at the corner of Grant street. The young driver was taken to the hospital by his father. Of the total damages, $650 of it was assessed to property struck by the car. Investigating officer was Richard L. White. (Photo by Knight)

BOBBY KENNEDY SAYS:

'Face The Future'

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
SAN FRANCISCO — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, said last night that placing political blame for the riots served no purpose. He added that it was imperative that the nation look to the future and act.

"We must look for action in two stages," he said in an address prepared for the Democratic legislative dinner at the Hotel Fairmont here.

"The first is an immediate impact project designed to put men to work and to restore hope to the young and to give the unemployed resident of the city slum some sense of dignity and promise.

"We should begin immediate programs of needed public tasks and works—providing jobs to build schools and roads, to restore parks and erect clinics, and to staff the schools and clinics and neighborhood centers when they are built.

"Our communities need these jobs done and the men of the ghetto need jobs. By matching the two we can return hope while meeting the most urgent needs of the nation."

The New York Democrat put the second stage in a longer and broader perspective. "We must enlist not merely the federal government as we have done through the war on poverty and other programs, but local authority and private enterprise, the skill and resources of the entire nation."

Kennedy then reviewed his legislative proposals to provide incentives such as accelerated amortization and tax credits to cooperating employers.

"Beyond this," he went on, "we need an all-encompassing program to strike at the sources of urban poverty. We have ideas. We have programs and we have men willing to carry forward the battle against poverty and hopelessness. What we need now is the leadership at every level, committed to ending the conditions which spur men to revolt in the streets of our cities."

CARNIVAL FOR A FRIEND

A group of neighborhood children on Warren's east-side held a carnival yesterday to raise funds to purchase a memorial book in the Warren Library for Cathy Allen. The affair was held at 53 Locust street, the home of

Aircraft Bombings Hit Record

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
SAIGON — American warplanes flew the highest number of missions of the war against North Vietnam Thursday as the ground war continued in a lull.

A U.S. command spokesman said yesterday that U.S. pilots flew 197 missions, hitting widely at targets from around Hanoi and Haiphong to the Demilitarized Zone.

Although the flights topped the previous high of 175 missions in a single day, flown last Oct. 14, the spokesman said he saw no specific reason for the number of flights except to note that the weather was good and the aircraft were available.

The number of aircraft involved is not disclosed, but a mission normally involves from two to five aircraft. The spokesman said he presumed the record number of missions also involved a record number of planes.

One Air Force F-105 Thunderchief was reported shot down over the southern panhandle Thursday with the pilot listed as missing. Disclosing updated figures, the spokesman said 635 U.S. planes have now been lost in combat in North Vietnam.

Tax Deduction Rights Bill Passes Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed yesterday a bill designed to end disputes between divorced or separated parents as to which shall receive the $600 tax deduction for support of the child.

Sponsors said that at present a mother having custody of a child sometimes refuses to give information on the child's expenses to the father, so that he has no way to establish that he is entitled to the deduction.

Under the bill, the general rule would be established that the parent having custody for a longer period is entitled to the deduction.

However, the father would get the deduction if he provides more than $1,200 of child support and the mother does not clearly establish that she contributes more than this.

County Promoted 'Too Much'

There is reason to think that Warren and Warren County might possibly be the most publicized community in the East now that the story of the Kinzua Dam and its tremendous recreational potential has "hit" every one of the leading outdoor magazines. Sports Afield is the latest to join the publicity parade with an article by B. J. Berry in the August issue.

In general, the Berry piece is one of the best covering the dam's potential, but a few overstatements rob it of being the kind of publicity that will benefit this community most.

For instance, the paste-on cover blurb stating "21,000 acres of new fishing waters for Pennsylvania" is misleading. This "21,000-acre" possibility is explained in the story as being the absolute capacity of the reservoir, and the correct 12,000-acre is stated. But it is not explained that only some 8,000 acres of the reservoir is within the borders of Pennsylvania, and therefore fishable on a Pennsylvania fishing license.

Also, the Allegheny Reservoir is described as "the largest dam in the East." Actually our local reservoir is about fifth in size, the Wolf Creek Dam in Kentucky being five times the

The California Redwoods

Is your porch furniture made of California redwood? Has redwood siding been installed on your house? Do you enjoy picnic suppers while seated at a redwood table in your back yard or patio?

If your answer is "yes" to any of these questions, then you should be vitally interested in the proposal for the establishment of a Redwood National Park in California.

If you are a preservationist at heart, you may feel ill at ease at having anything made of redwood around the house. If you are a true conservationist, and familiar with both sides of the Redwood National Park controversy, you should have no qualms about using products made from this noble tree.

I saw my first redwoods in 1943 after I had spent ten days battling two destructive forest fires in the California Sierras. If anyone should have been impressed with the quiet beauty and serenity of a grove of superlative redwoods, I should have after my exposure to heat, smoke and ugliness on the fire line. Twenty-four years later I still treasure the memory of those giant trees whose ancestors were growing when dinosaurs walked the earth.

Sequoia sempervirens, commonly known as coast redwood, redwood, or California redwood is not a vanishing species. There are probably more redwood trees today than there were when man first put axe and saw to them. There is less old-growth redwood, but many fine second-growth stands of this species have replaced the mature trees that were cut.

In Del Norte County there are second-growth redwoods 120 years old that are 200 feet high and nearly seven feet in diameter. Unlike most conifers, redwoods have the capacity to sprout from the stump after logging. Sprout growth redwoods make remarkable growth and supplement redwoods of seedling origin.

Redwoods can live a little more than 2,000 years. Occasional trees may reach heights of over 350 feet with diameters of 15 feet. But great size cannot always be equated with great age. The oldest tree in the world — some 4,600 years — is a scrubby little Bristlecone pine that grows on a barren ridge top on the Inyo National Forest in California.

Superlative redwoods — the ones that tourists come half-way around the world to see — occur in almost pure stands on stream benches and alluvial flats. Redwood is the dominant species here only because of fire and flooding. Eliminate these acts of nature, and other species will take over.

As old redwoods die and fall over, the openings created will gradually fill in with Douglas-fir, tan oak, bay and lowland white fir. Eventually hemlock and western red cedar might become dominant. Redwood is almost impervious to damage by ground fire, and water-deposited silt favors this species but kills seedlings of invading species.

It is ironic that man, through over-protection of the very species that he wishes to save, may doom these superlative groves a century or two from now. To avoid this tragedy, he may have to practice controlled burning periodically, and physically remove unwanted tree species to maintain the present high proportion of redwoods.

Despite the recent efforts of the Sierra Club, the idea of saving the redwoods is nothing new. The Save-the-Redwoods League has been doing a good job of it for nearly 50 years. Largely through the League's efforts, 55,000 acres of virgin redwoods have been preserved size of the Kinzua. But once one has read beyond such misleading statements, and discounted the suggestion that "30-inch rainbows and browns aren't unknown," or "bear families frequently raid the hunting camps" the coverage is exceptionally good.

The fact is, we do have 30-inch trout in our streams perhaps, and bears do occasionally bother a hunting camp. But the reader of outdoor magazines long ago learned to question the worth of areas where such claims are made.

All in all, the article "Kinzua Dam — 21,000 Acres of New Fishing Waters" is well done and B.J. Berry is to be commended for the way it is handled. And while an old adage reminds us that we should "never look a gift horse in the mouth," it is regrettable that this fine article just misses being "great" by the author's use of a few flipant remarks.

Remarks that residents of the area may have to explain away when the enthusiastic hunter or fisherman influenced by the article comes face to face with the facts.

Where Are We?

Today we would like to "congratulate" Mr. John K. Tabor, state secretary of internal affairs, for promoting Pennsylvania. You see, Mr. Tabor — on the back of his department's mail envelopes — has a map of Pennsylvania. It lists Titusville with a cut of Drake Well; mentions Oil City as an All America City, along with a few others (that have slum problems); points out Bradford and below the name it identifies the Kinzua Dam with a sketch, and brags up a few of the longer-known attractions.

We would also like to "thank" Mr. Tabor for leaving Warren off the map. Of course, we are only bigger than Titusville, moving ahead while Bradford's moving backward — and believe it or not, we are "the" gateway to the Kinzua Dam despite any other claims.

Update your map Mr. Tabor.

'A Lot To Be Desired?'

WASHINGTON — The worst thing the United States could have done was to introduce television to South Vietnam. It has given the South Vietnamese an opportunity to watch American news programs and these have raised many questions in the minds of our friends out there.

Two South Vietnamese couples were watching a news show on a set the other night, a few miles outside of Saigon. The news had to do with Newark, Detroit, East Harlem, Cambridge, Md., and Plainfield, N.J.

"Well," said one of the Vietnamese, at the end of the show, "they seem to be doing very well militarily, but their pacification program leaves a lot to be desired."

The other Vietnamese man said, "I think the trouble is that you want results overnight. You have to remember that the United States is a young country, and they were under the domination of the British until 1775. They can't be expected to resolve their differences in less than 300 years."

The other wife said, "Because it takes two sides to talk and the government in Washington just doesn't seem to be getting through to the people in the countryside. Isn't that right, Cao?"

"That's true. I think the political structure of the United States is very weak at the moment. Rather than resolve their problems, the political parties are blaming each other for the fighting in the cities."

"But why don't we do something about it?" the Vietnamese wife asked.

"The South Vietnamese can only advise the United States on how to run its affairs. We can't get involved in American politics or they'll accuse us of a colonial policy. All we can do is urge them to have elections in 1968 and hope they put in people who sincerely care about the country."

"I disagree with you," the Vietnamese husband said. "South Vietnam has a great stake in the United States and I believe we should get actively involved in their problems. There is obviously a revolution going on there and they are in no position to put it down themselves."

"Are you trying to say you would advocate sending South Vietnamese boys to Detroit?" "Yes, I am. We have a commitment to the United States and if they're in trouble we should honor it."

One of the Vietnamese wives was adamant. "I believe the sending of South Vietnamese troops to the United States at this time would be a tragic mistake. If the United States is ever going to learn how to govern itself, it should use its own troops. I think we should offer advice, but not soldiers."

"But if President Johnson and Gov. Romney can't agree on the use of troops, how are you ever going to pacify the country?" "I agree," said his wife. "You're not just going to let the United States go down the drain."

The other husband was adamant. "I don't think you can do it with troops. You've got to win the hearts and minds of the American people. You've got to convince them that bombing and burning down their own cities can only be destructive in the long run."

"We can say that, sitting here in Vietnam before our television sets. But I wonder if you'd feel the same way if you were in the United States right now, wondering what tomorrow was going to bring."

Could I interest you in a tall stand of birch in Orange County?"

Why Not Liberate France?

The poor French! They are so bloody ungovernable that they shrink from an elementary act of self-emancipation. For General Charles de Gaulle to worry about the liberty of the Quebecois, while he exercises tyrannical power over fifty-million Frenchmen who dare not free themselves because to do so would threaten the old familiar anarchy, is what makes his effrontery in Canada so majestically galling.

Are we really all to begin worrying about the freedom of the Quebecois? Such has been their freedom in Canada that no French Canadian was required to serve in the Canadian Army that helped to liberate France — only English-speaking Canadians were conscripted to the Cross of Lorraine.

Professor John Roche, back during the days not long ago when everybody was talking about the Right Wing Menace, confessed to his hysterical colleagues that his own fear of the right wing ranked approximately 26th in his hierarchy of fears, the 25th being the fear of college presidents, the 27th the fear of being eaten alive by piranhas. The fear of a cruel oppression by English-speaking Canadians directed against French-speaking Canadians is, by Mr. Roche's ranking, somewhere between Fear 40 and 50.

It is too late to try to understand De Gaulle. It was only ten years ago that he was fuming against any Americans who professed their opinions about the right of Algerians to "free" themselves from France (the poor Algerians are, of course, less free now than they were under France).

When he resumed power in 1958, he was pledged to the colonization of Algeria. His sudden change of mind, in the spirit of anti-colonialism, has now gone to the fanatical lengths of demanding a "free" Quebec. Tomorrow, for all we know, he will demand the freedom of the Manhattan Indians to resume control of Manhattan.

He ceases, really, to be interesting. Instead, his influence is interesting, and we have now the extraordinary spectacle of complete puppetization of his cabinet. If it were the Politburo, whose unanimity was recorded by Josef

PEARSON & ANDERSON

'Can the U.S. Feed the World?'

WASHINGTON — The question "can America feed the world?" was debated recently before the International Platform Association by Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman; Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., former chairman of the Food for Peace Committee; and Sen. Joe Clark, D-Pa., whose recent disclosures of Negro starvation in Mississippi have startled the nation.

Said Clark: "In many a county in Appalachia, children and their parents will go to bed hungry tonight. . . Two thousand years ago the philosopher Seneca said, 'A hungry people listens not to reason, or cares for justice, or is bent by any prayers.'"

Said Sen. McGovern: "The hunger that lurks in the jungles of Vietnam is a greater danger than the guerrillas lurking there. . . We've accomplished more with wheat and dried milk than all the military hardware we've sent abroad."

Said Secretary Freeman: "The record will show that in the past six and one-half years this administration has made more food available to hungry people than all the previous administrations combined."

"The United States has never fought a more important war. An estimated two billion of the world's people are hungry or malnourished. Regardless of population control measures, there will be another billion mouths to feed by 1970."

Secretary Freeman was reasonably optimistic about the chance of feeding the world in the future. Sen. McGovern was not.

"Dr. Thomas Malthus wrote a book which alarmed the world and which is still a best seller in which he said: 'Mankind's capacity to reproduce is greater than mankind's capacity to feed himself.'"

"Malthus," continued Sen. McGovern, "did not perceive the technical advances of agriculture which have postponed the day of reckoning. Nevertheless that day is approaching. It is the technical advances of agriculture which Secretary Freeman is gambling on to help feed the world. He knows that they have been amazing. In fact the advances have been so great in this country that he personally and other Secretaries of Agriculture before him have been embarrassed by a surplus, not a scarcity. But in the future the embarrassment may be the other way around."

Commenting on the American agricultural revolution, Silvio Erucan, former Romanian minister to the United States, once told me: "We are not much interested in American industrial machinery. The Germans, French and the Japanese have newer machinery than you. But we are interested in your farm machinery. You have produced the most revolutionary methods of Stalin or even Alexei Kosygin, that would be one thing. But De Gaulle's cabinet includes Andre Malraux, perhaps the principal genius of Europe; and for him to go along with De Gaulle's mischievous puerility concerning Canada is to record, for the millionth time, the infinite servility of the intellectuals.

It is a special torment that De Gaulle should have brought together his cabinet in order to demand from them a pledge of loyalty to his latest insanity. If he had not been suffering from the megalomania of the aging despot, he could at least have permitted them to remain meekly silent on the matter, so that they could confide to their grandchildren that he did not really go along with the old man in l'Affaire Canada.

As usual the left is misbehaving. The Communists are backing De Gaulle for the obvious reason that he has caused consternation, and the Communists will back anyone that causes consternation in the West, a free Quebecois, a Detroit rioter, or an earthquake. The Socialists are also backing De Gaulle, mostly as a matter of ideological doctrine, as De Gaulle has recently served their cause by his compulsory profit-sharing plan, and they (unlike the labor union leaders, interestingly enough) are grateful. But also the Socialists have always been suckers for the rhetoric of anti-colonialism. It is continuously fascinating to paradox-collectors that Socialists who talk in the grand manner about world states and international solidarities are suckers for the separation of Rwanda from Burundi.

French pride is probably the most concrete substance in all of Europe, and it is this of course that intensifies the current crisis. The French cannot bear to be made to look foolish, and thus De Gaulle has irrevocably done.

If De Gaulle had merely been the leader of a French political faction, somebody like, say, Pierre Mendes-France, it would not be so bad. But De Gaulle has succeeded in convincing the entire world that he is the quintessential Frenchman and so all of France agonizes. And the publisher of Le Monde, so rarely heard from, warns his countrymen that they had better get rid of De Gaulle now, else the alternative to De Gaulle — if France continues to yield to him — will be intolerable, because France will have lost the little capacity she has to rule herself successfully.

farming in the world. It is your greatest contribution. But you haven't promoted it around the world."

Today some American companies are doing exactly this.

The New Holland Farm Machinery Company, developed in a small town in Pennsylvania named "New Holland," is branching out with factories in England, Australia, France and Belgium. It has adapted special combines for harvesting rice in the Philippines and Southeast Asia and special balers to handle the short straw that is grown in Greece. For more humid climates, especially in the United States, New Holland has developed the "haybine," a machine which cuts hay and presses the moisture out of it at the same time with a "crimp" so that hay does not have to lie in the sun as long as it did in the past. To some extent New Holland has outmoded the old farm motto, "Make hay while the sun shines."

"The world is sitting on a population time bomb with the fuse burning fast," says George C. Delp, New Holland president. "We are doing our best to prevent a global food catastrophe."

New Holland has also developed an amazing machine to pick up a crop which has fallen down in the field, chop it into small pieces and blow it into a wagon.

Another firm contributing to the agricultural revolution is the Cobey Wagon Company of Galion, Ohio, which has come a century from the old days of the lumbering farm wagon to modern automatic wagons which will unload three or four tons of corn or chopped ensilage in a few minutes.

The Chore Boy Company of Cambridge City, Ind., on the other hand, has adopted a unique dairymaking idea from New Zealand, the herringbone milking parlor, in which cows stand at an angle like the bones of a herring, to be milked. Chore Boy's motto is, "Don't stoop to teats," which means the cows walk in on an elevated platform and the dairymen stand upright at a lower level to attach the automatic milkers.

The American farmer, thanks to the ingenuity of American farm machinery companies, is producing the biggest crops in history. Secretary Freeman believes the time has come for the American farm revolution to be spread abroad just as New Holland is adapting it to Philippine rice and Greek hay.

Insurance men are concerned about how far to carry their interpretations of the niceties of language in policies that cover riot-damaged stores and homes in cities across the nation. After the Watts riots, insurance companies generally paid claims in part because Watts rioting was considered an isolated incident. Now, however, they're seriously considering taking advantage wherever possible of clauses that permit them to refrain from paying in cases of "Insurrection."

R. HARATINE

Barr's Answer Was Firm

HARRISBURG — After the style of the late Gov. David L. Lawrence, it was only natural to believe that Gov. Shafer's tax package could be won by making a "deal" with Pittsburgh Mayor Joseph M. Barr. Hoping to get the votes he needs to end Pennsylvania's fiscal stalemate, Gov. Shafer made it a point to run into Mayor Barr at least twice during recent weeks.

The sparring was gentle, but the answer from Barr was firm. Contrary to the Lawrence style, Barr told the present governor that elected legislators would call the shots for the Allegheny County Democrats, not him.

This is no weakness on Barr's part. It is part of the new approach underway in the domain of Lawrence once ran with a tight lip and an iron fist.

First clear sign of Barr's "new" approach was his willingness to let political lieutenants convince him that the Allegheny organization should oust Dr. William D. McClelland, once and for all, from his political power perch in the County Commissioner's office. This was done in the May Primary.

Doc McClelland was a pain in the Lawrence side for nearly a generation. Always second to Lawrence in influence, McClelland nevertheless had a significant following. As mayor and as governor, Lawrence engaged in constant compromise with his intra-party foe; he accepted McClelland's opposition as part of the game.

Although a protégé of Lawrence, and a responsive student of the Lawrence technique, Mayor Barr is spurning the Lawrence device of containment and compromise.

Lawrence won a reputation for inter-party dealing — and often reminded Republican legislators of it when he needed their votes. In the administrations of Govs. Duff and Pine, particularly, Lawrence "supplied" Democratic votes in the Legislature to help put across programs espoused by the Republican governors. As a consequence, State funds flowed easily and munificently into the programs that made the Pittsburgh Renaissance a world wide legend.

Mayor Barr, naturally, is not blind to the largesse that might come more easily to Pittsburgh, if he were to command Allegheny county votes to turn in for the Shafer tax package.

Notwithstanding, Barr is developing a new style. When the sense of the conversations with Gov. Shafer came clear, Mayor Barr told the governor, politely but firmly, "That is a decision our fellows will have to make over in the Legislature, by themselves."

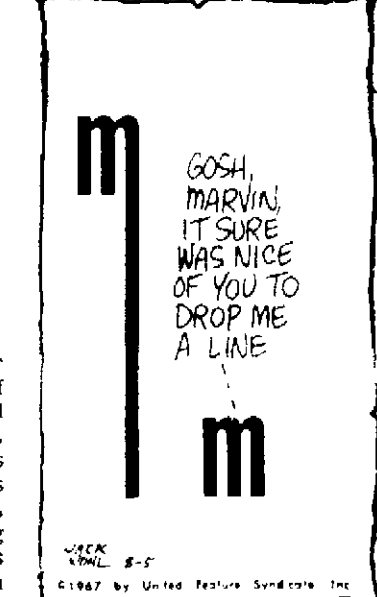

Notwithstanding, news reports were rampant — along with rumors in the House lobby — that the "deal" was "on." These rumors were spiked in a dramatic episode behind the closed doors of the Democratic House Caucus.

There, K. Leroy Irvis, the minority whip and a product of the Allegheny County organization dominated by Mayor Barr, reviewed the rumor. Then he told his colleagues: "I am confident there will be no such development."

This was no idle prediction. Irvis made before the jammed Caucus, hung heavy with cigar smoke, a product of the Allegheny County organization and an unusually competent spokesman in Democratic policy matters, the Pittsburgh Negro holds second-in-command on the strength of agreements between the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia Democratic organizations.

"To the best of my knowledge there is no Pittsburgh deal," Irvis told his caucus, "and there will be no Pittsburgh deal. To guarantee that statement, I promise here and now to resign as minority whip if there is."

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Doubles by Lou Brock and Phil Gagliano keyed a five-run sixth inning and Larry Jaster stopped Cincinnati on four hits as St. Louis ripped the Reds 5-0 last night.

Mike Shannon singled, driving in the Cardinals first run off loser Gary Nolan, Gagliano drove in a run with his double and Brock doubled in two more. Shannon scored the other run of the inning on Jaster's infield out.

Jaster picked up his seventh victory as he allowed just two hits, both by Tommy Harper, through the first six innings. Jaster struck out five and walked just one man.

Brock, Roger Maris and Dal Maxvill each had a pair of hits, leading the Cardinals' nine hit assault. Brock singled in the third, extending his hitting streak to 11 games.

the third on singles by Don Kessinger and Glenn Beckert plus Billy Williams' sacrifice fly.

Atlanta, however, rallied for two runs in a fourth inning rally ignited by Menke's double. Aaron followed with a single, tying the score.

An error, Torre's infield single and a ground out brought home the lead run.

Chicago closed the gap to 5-3 in the seventh on singles by Al Spangler, John Stephenson, Lee Thomas and Kessinger.

The uprising routed Pat Jarvis, the Braves' starter, but the latter was credited with his 12th victory against four losses. Cecil Upshaw finished.

Aaron had three singles before being sidelined in the sixth inning with a slight muscle pull in his right side. He is expected to play Saturday.

After the Yankees loaded the bases on two singles and a walk, Bill Robinson fled deep into the left-field corner, but Cater's leaping catch against the wall in left field ended the inning.

The A's got both their runs in the third inning on two consecutive sacrifice flies. John Odom scored on a fly to right field by Cater with Bert Campaneris moving to third, Ken Harrelson then flew to centerfield with Campaneris scoring.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ray Sadecki delivered a pair of key singles and, with ninth inning help from Frank Linzy, blanked New York 3-0 for San Francisco last night.

Sadecki, who struck out nine before leaving with one out in the ninth, drove in the Giants' second run with a fifth inning single and then set up the final run with another hit in the seventh against Tom Seaver, 10-8.

Jim Hart's 25th homer of the year in the second inning gave Sadecki, 4-3, a quick lead.

Then in the fifth, Hal Lanier opened with a single. Tito Fuentes forced Lanier but stole second and rode home on Sadecki's single.

Two innings later, Lanier singled again, moved to third on a hit by Sadecki and scored on Jesus Alou's infield single.

SHUTOUT COLLEGIANS, 27-0

Packers Whip 'Stars

By JOE MOOSHL
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The Green Bay Packers, champions of professional football, rolled with ease behind the passing of Bart Starr in the first half and then coasted to a 27-0 victory over the College All-Stars last night.

A crowd of 70,934 saw the sturdy Packer defense completely contain the cream of collegiate football as Starr connected on a pair of first half touchdown passes after Don Chandler had booted two first quarter field goals.

The victory was the 23rd for the professionals against nine losses and two ties in the colorful series which began in 1934 and the second in a row for the Packers who annihilated the 1966 All-Stars 38-0.

The last time the All-Stars were victorious was against the Packers, 20-17 in 1963.

Green Bay's granite defense didn't allow the All-Stars to get into Packer territory until the fourth quarter when Bob Griese hit Mel Farr with a 27-yard pass but Farr was hit and fumbled the ball with Dave Robinson recovering for the Packers on the Green Bay 47.

Starr, who connected for touchdown passes of 11 yards to Boyd Dowler and 22 yards to Bob Long, hit on 14 of 20 attempts for 204 yards but was withheld from action in the second half.

After Robinson recovered Farr's fumble, the Packers marched in another six points, with Jim Grabowski rambling 22 yards for the score.

Grabowski, who saw National Guard duty in the Milwaukee riots earlier in the week, was not expected to play but turned out to be the Packers' top running back of the night after entering the game in the second quarter.

The All-Stars' only threat came late in the game when Griese began hitting and directed a drive from the All-Star 19 to the Green Bay 18.

Griese completed passes of 11 yards to Gene Washington of Michigan State and 14 yards to Tom Beer of Houston before he hit Dave Williams of Washington with a 26-yarder to the Packer 18.

Pirates Sell Pete Mikkelsen to Cubs
PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates called pitcher John Gelnar from their Columbus, Ohio, farm club yesterday to replace reliever Pete Mikkelsen, who was sold earlier to the Chicago Cubs.

Gelnar, a 24-year-old right-hander, had a record of 10-4 with Columbus.

Barrett's Champs
Barrett's Garage picked up the County Intermediate Championship last night as they downed Brown Run Lumber 10-0.

Pete Thornton hurled the win, giving up two hits. Dave Belt was tagged with the loss. Thornton pitched a double and went two-for-four.

Barth Lohmes smacked a double for Barrett's and finished out with a four-for-five night. Bob Fassinger went two-for-three for Barrett's and bombed a three-bagger and a double. Barrett's won the County title with a 16-2 record.

El-Tronics Wins Two
El-Tronics downed PDM twice in last night's Cadet action. The first game a tie playoff, was won 7-6; the second game was played to a 9-7 mark.

Jay Bathurst hurled both wins for El-Tronics and Steve Faulkner suffered the twin loss. Mark Krumm smashed a three-bagger for PDM. Triples were also slugged for PDM by Faulkner and Bill Tucker, one apiece.

Joe Bertetto collected a three-bagger and a double for El-Tronics. A double for the winners was also clubbed by Dave Crosley. El-Tronics finish out the season with a 12-6 slate.

Dairy Pals Thru
Warren County Dairy pulled through last night and edged Community Market-Coin Laundry 8-6. Mark Slater threw the win for the Dairy and Steve Prelog collected the win and Mike Maxwell was charged with the loss.

Tom Gerarde bombed a round-tripper for Diamond. Three-baggers were smacked for Diamond by Mike Baldensperger, Pat Gerarde and Prelog. Pat Gerarde also smacked a double to round out Diamond action. Don Moore clubbed a triple for the losers and Mike Gheres smacked a double. Diamond has lost only one game this season.

Griese then tossed another pass to Williams, but the official ruled it incomplete as Williams caught the ball out of the end zone.

The stubborn Packer defense, stingiest in the NFL last year, refused to allow the Stars any notable gains in the first half as Green Bay methodically moved to a 20-0 halftime advantage on the deft passing of Starr.

All-Star coach Johnny Sauer kept shifting from Spurrier to Griese at the quarterback slot and finally used Bo Burris of Houston in the closing minutes. Except for the Griese drive to the Green Bay 18, none of them had much success against the unyielding and proud Packer defense.

Exhibition Game Here Called Off
An exhibition softball contest between Warren Beverage and Hunter's Inn of Erie scheduled for tonight has been called off. The Erie club called last evening to report they would not be able to make the trip.

Jets Wallop Pats, 55-13
BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — Joe Namath completed five of seven passes for 50 yards in the first quarter and the New York Jets went on to crush the Boston Patriots 55-13 last night in an American Football League exhibition.

Namath, who had rejoined the club shortly before the game after being seen in New York's East Side bars during the pre-dawn hours, started and played the first quarter only.

The Jets intercepted six passes and brought two of them back for long touchdowns, and Emerson Boozar galloped for three more scored in the rout of the Pats.

Lab Harris In Front At Western

CHICAGO (AP)—Labron Harris, never a PGA tourney winner, fired 34-34-65 for an eight-under-par 134 to grab a two-stroke lead over 36 holes in the Western Golf Open yesterday.

Hot on his trail at 105 were Julius Boros, seeking his fourth victory of the year and Dave Marr, playing his best golf since winning the National PGA in 1965.

The 47-year-old Boros methodically stroked his second straight 68 with four birdies and only one bogey and chuckled that "I don't think I'm in a rut and can do better than a 68 if I can start thinking out there."

Marr made his move with a pair of 33's for 66 with nine out-put greens. Doug Sanders charged in with 35-33—68 for a 137, and determinedly went to the practice tee to try to hold his sharpness.

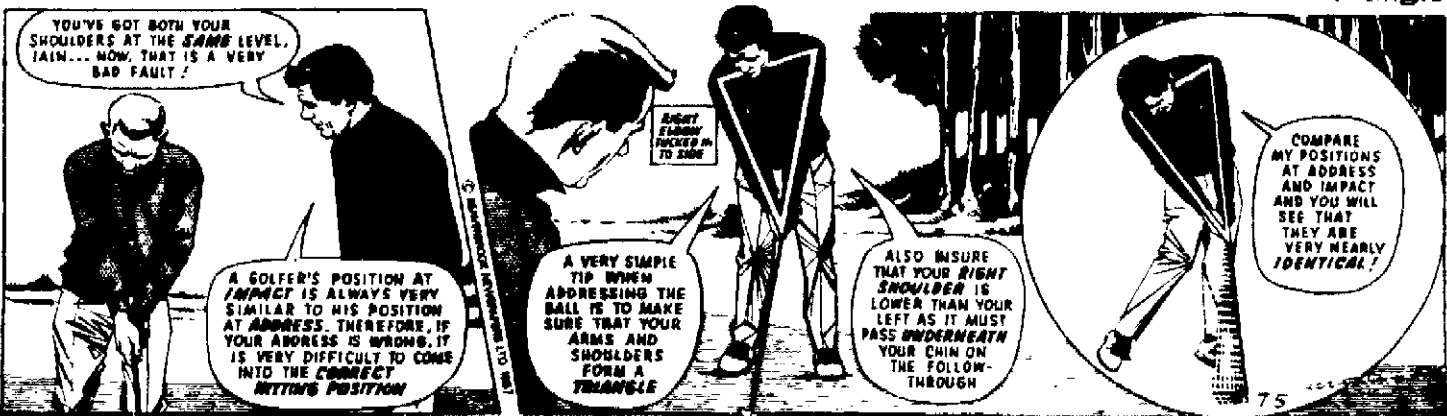

Steve Oppermann, among five strong contenders bidding for a first tournament triumph, matched par 71 for 138.

Jack Nicklaus moved into a share of 11th place with 13 others at 140 with 34-34—68 as he hit every green in regulation but one.

The original field of 150 was cut to the low 75 scores and ties and it took a score of 145 to enter today's third round. Among those failing were Bob Charles, Dick Mayer, Allan Henning and the 1964 winner, Chi Chi Rodriguez. Mayer aced the 125-yard 12th with a pitching wedge but a 71 left him at 147. It was the 8th hole-in-one of his career.

Two others who shared the first round lead with the 25-year-old Harris with 66—Australia's Bob Stanton and South Africa's Bob Verwey—falterred slightly but still remained hot in contention.

Yanks Set Track Records, Move Up in Cage, Rowing

By TED SMITS

Associated Press Sports Editor WINNIPEG, Canada (AP)—Four Pan-American track and field records were smashed by Americans yesterday, the United States men's basketball team crushed Argentina 106-55, and all-American crews advanced to the finals.

The track records were:

Men's 110 meter hurdles—Earl McCulloch, Long Beach, Calif., 13.4, old record 13.8 by Blair Lindgren, U.S.A., 1963.

Men's 50-kilometer walk—Larry Young, San Pedro, Calif., 4:28:20.3, old record 5:06:06.8 by S. Ibanez, Argentina, 1951.

Hammer—Tom Gage, Billin's, Mont., 214.4, old record 205.10, Al Hall, U.S.A., 1963.

Broad jump—Ralph Boston, Nashville, Tenn., 27-2 1/2, old record, 26-7 1/2, by Boston, 1963.

Gage and Boston made their marks early in the competition. In an extremely close hurdle race, Willie Davenport, Warren, Ohio, closed fast and almost caught McCulloch at the tape. He was timed in 13.5.

McCulloch's victory brought the United States gold medal total to 99.

In men's basketball Jo Jo White of St. Louis and Kansas University and Wes Unseld of Louisville, Ky., and Louisville University, led the American attack with 14 points each. The United States meets unbeaten Mexico tonight in the decisive game of the tournament.

America picked up another gold medal when Larry Young of San Pedro, Calif., won the 50 kilometer—31 mile—walk in record breaking time; the women's basketball team defeated Cuba 51-44 to take the silver medal, and Forrest Ward of

New York advanced to the finals in the heavyweight division by scoring a TKO against Ricardo Aguad of Argentina in 1:10 of the second round.

In the men's basketball, the Americans scored 14 straight points midway in the first half to open a 35-12 advantage and were never threatened.

Other top U.S. scorers were Henry Logan, Asheville, N.C., with 12 and Jim Williams, Norristown, Pa., and Kendall Rhine, Dupo, Ill., with 10 each.

Al Alfredo Feresin of Argentina with 12 points.

The victory was the United States' fourth without a loss in the six team round-robin.

Argentina's standings dropped to 1-3.

Young was timed for the 31-miles in 4 hours, 26 minutes and 20.3 seconds. This knocked a full one-half hour off the record set in 1951 at the first games in Buenos Aires by S. Ibanez of Argentina at 5:06.8.

So swift was the pace set by the Californian that he helped Canada's Felix Cappella, who

Favor Terrell And Ellis In Tourney Bouts Today

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Ernie Terrell and Jimmy Ellis, a former sparring partner of Cassius Clay, will be the favorites today as two 12-round matches launch an eight-man tournament to select a new heavyweight boxing champion of the world.

Clay is expected to be a ringside in the Astro dome for the start of the tournament sanctioned by the World Boxing Association after it stripped the undefeated Clay of his title after he refused induction into the Army.

Terrell, who claimed the WBA version of the title for 23 months until Clay whipped him last February, is a firm favorite over Thad Spencer, a San Francisco counterpuncher who had hoped to follow Terrell into the ring against Clay.

Ellis, whose dancing style resembles that of Clay, holds a narrow edge over Leotis Martin, a relative newcomer who got his big chance when Joe Frazier, the No. 2 challenger, decided to boycott the tournament.

Both matches will be televised nationally by ABC at 5 p.m. EDT with the Houston area blacked out. The Ellis-Martin match is set for 5:15 p.m., with Terrell and Spencer following at 6:15 p.m. The fights also will be televised in Mexico and satellites will carry them to Great Britain, Europe and Japan.

A crowd of 15,000 and a $75,000 gate are expected. These estimates contrast with a record indoor crowd of 37,321 and a gate of $400,145 for the Feb. 6 Clay-Terrell title showdown in the Astro dome.

Winners today will move into the semifinals against survivors of matches between Karl Mildener and Oscar Bonavena and between Floyd Patterson and Jerry Quarry.

Mildener is ranked the No. 1 contender by the WBA ahead of Frazier, Bonavena, Terrell, Spencer, Patterson, Quarry, Ellis and Martin.

Terrell, at 28, has won 39 of 44 fights and has never been knocked out. He has a reputation of mauling, pushing, shoving and jabbing. He has given every indication of complete recovery from a severe eye injury he claimed he received when fouled by Clay.

Spencer, 24, is a protege of Eddie Machen. He holds a 32-3 record but has been knocked out twice.

Both Ellis and Martin are 27. Ellis, a Louisville, Ky., native, has had 12 knockouts in a 26-5 record. Martin, a Toledo, Ohio, native, boxing out of Philadelphia has 14 knockouts and a 24-1 record.

All four have spent considerable time during training talking about Clay.

"Pound for pound, Clay was the best champion of our time," Terrell said. "If somebody has to buy him a ticket Saturday, I'll buy it."

"Clay was a great champion," Spencer said. "But he's gone. That's over. Now he's got to convince the warden his name is Muhammad Ali, not us."

Clay is free under $2,000 bond while appealing his June 20 conviction and a five year prison sentence.

Did Wilt Pull Fast One in 76ers Pact?

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

Associated Press Sports Writer PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Did Wilt Chamberlain get the Philadelphia 76ers to waive the basic fabric of every major sports contract—the controversial reserve clause?

Chamberlain, in a copywright story by George Kiseda, in the Philadelphia Bulletin yesterday, says he did, and that he is free to do anything he wants, including playing in the new American Basketball League.

The 76ers' owner, Irv Kosloff would neither confirm nor deny Chamberlain's contentions. Kosloff issued the following statement:

"We respect and recognize Wilt's position as the player who led the 76ers to the championship.

"We are very hopeful of initiating and completing negotiations for a new agreement with Wilt. We intend to extend ourselves to the fullest limit in this direction.

"However, we would rather withhold any further statement at this time so as not to impede progress in completion of this agreement."

General manager Jack Ramsay was weekendend in Avalon, N.J.

An unimpeachable source, however, said Chamberlain's interpretation of his 1966-67 contract with the 76ers of the National Basketball Association is an honest viewpoint.

The source confirmed that Kosloff did tell the 7-foot-1 Chamberlain his contract committed him for one year, and that he then was released from all obligations of that contract.

The source added, however, that in his recollection, the reserve clause was not specifically mentioned, although release from it was implied.

The reserve clause is considered inviolate by owners of baseball, football, basketball, hockey and other major league teams. They contend they can't survive without it.

It is what binds a player to one club from the moment he signs his first contract, until that club either trades or releases him. It has been the subject of argument for many years as to its legality.

Chamberlain, who led the 76ers to the NBA championship last season, told Kiseda: "I was released from all obligations. I am able to do whatever I want to do this particular year—with the possible exception of going to another NBA team."

"Without a doubt, I would never have signed if that hadn't been the main thing stipulated. People there, the 76ers, 'now it'."

Basketball's most controversial personality as well as its top player, Chamberlain insisted there were reliable witnesses to the unprecedented oral agreement he says was reached with Kosloff.

Chamberlain admits signing a standard league contract, but told Kiseda it was a charade. He said something had to be filed in the league office and that was why he went through the motions of signing.

"I don't believe the 76ers would sue if I went to the other league," said Chamberlain who reportedly drew the highest straight salary ever paid a player—upwards of $200,000 for the 1966-67 season.

"I have a release from every-thing that was binding in that contract," Chamberlain said from his apartment in a San Francisco hotel.

Although he has been talking with people from the other league, Chamberlain said there was the possibility he would not play basketball this season.

"... It might not be the worse thing for me. There's nothing forcing me to go into the American Basketball Association. There's nothing forcing me to go back to the 76ers. There's nothing forcing me to go anywhere at all."

Chamberlain has been insisting ever since the end of last season that he was free to negotiate for a new contract. The 76ers kept saying their star was in the third year of a three-year contract. Ramsay, however, recently admitted Chamberlain was free to dicker for a new pact.

"They've come halfway down the ladder," Chamberlain told Kiseda, "but they haven't come all the way down. It makes me look as if I'm telling a big fat lie. That's not fair to me."

The Chamberlain-76ers contract controversies have raged ever since he was acquired by the team from San Francisco two years ago. The late Ike Richman got Wilt to come to terms with a promise to give him 25 per cent of Richman's 50 per cent interest in the team.

When Richman died, Kosloff denied any knowledge of the Richman-Chamberlain agreement, and as a result the three-year contract was nullified and a new one-year agreement negotiated.

Surgery Slated For Colts Star

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP)—Alvin Raymond, free safety for the Baltimore Colts, will be operated on next Tuesday for a chronic right shoulder dislocation and Coach Don Shula said he could be sidelined for the entire season.

It will be a double loss for the Colts. In addition to his defensive value, Raymond was one of the most daring punt returners in the National Football League.

Last season, he called for a fair catch only eight times and ran back punts 40 times.

Myrl Lawson Takes Ladies Invitational Title at JVCC

Myrl Lawson of Conewango Valley Country Club toured the 18-hole layout at Jackson Valley Country Club Thursday in 88 strokes to capture the JV Ladies' Invitational Tournament. She had to stave off a determined effort by Roxie Dove to do it, as Blueberry's ace junior golfer dropped two strokes at number fourteen and two more at number seventeen to Mrs. Lawson and ended up with a 92 for second low gross for the day.

Helen Granger of Moonbrook took third and Helen Olivett of Emporium was fourth in the first flight with 97 and 99 respectively. Low net scores in

Is Joe Namath's Trouble In His Knee or Stomach?

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Namath, pro football's $400,000 quarterback with the New York Jets, was seen in several plush bars on New York's gay East Side before dawn yesterday, mumbling, "My knee hurts."

The former All-America at Alabama was found at 3:45 a.m. standing on the corner of Secand Avenue and 78th Street. An Associated Press reporter, responding to a First Avenue bartender's telephoned tip, said Namath appeared upset and kept mumbling, "My knee hurts."

Asked about reports that he had been heard to say he was through with football, Namath shrugged.

Namath, who has a case history of knee trouble, had worked out with the Jets at their Peekskill, N.Y., training camp Thursday but was not in his room at 10 p.m. bed check.

"I left camp last night for personal reasons and not because either of my knees troubled me," Namath said in the afternoon after he had returned to Peekskill and huddled with Coach Weeb Ewbank.

Namath later apologized to the team and accompanied the squad to Bridgeport, Conn., for a scheduled exhibition game against the Boston Patriots last night.

The former Alabama star underwent an operation on his right knee after the 1966 American Football League season and then twisted his left knee in practice last week at the Jets' training camp. However, he has shown greater mobility than he had last year.

the first flight were Joan Carter's 78, Pat Kay's 79, Doris Scalise's 81, and Helen Culbertson's 82. Low putts went to Jean Lindholm.

In the second flight, Phyl Davis of Conewango Valley emerged the winner with a low gross of 104, followed by Jean Loper of J.V. with 106, and Genie Adams and Harriet Bugbee, both of Moonbrook, scoring 113 and 117 respectively.

Low net in second flight belonged to Orgie Fields of Emporium, who hit 80, with Millie Manirey a strong second at 83. Carol Duell had an 85 and Marti Johnson a 95. Barb Kennerson won the prize for low putts.

The third flight low gross prize was captured by Cell Schager of Emporium. She had a 109, followed by June McConnell 112, Red Walsh, 117 and Helen Werner 124. Polly Schmidt of Conewango Valley gained the honors in the flight for her low net score of 78, beating out Harriet Aiello's 83 and Wanda Arnold's 85 and Gail Ettinger's 84's. Doris Betts got the award for low putts.

In the fourth flight Rosann Lucia gained the victory with a gross score of 128. Ruth Lind's 133, Bubbles Anderson's 139 and Dolly Bevevino's 145 were next in line. Kay Johnson led the fourth flight net scorers with an 85, while Stella Lynch took 93, Helen Bunk 96, and Betty Beyer 102.

Rounding out the prize winners was Gladys Johnson with low putts in the flight.

Breakfast was served to the ladies between rounds of golf, on the patio of the clubhouse. The awards luncheon following the completion of play featured the presentation of prizes by Jackson Valley professional Les Rettburg.

The Master Plan: Is It Followed?

The Warren Borough Master Plan, published in 1963, pinpoints several areas in the community which are "dilapidated" or "deteriorating." The Times-Mirror and Observer visited those areas recently with a camera. The results are on these pages.

The borough council only weeks ago passed a building code and a housing code, which is aimed at alleviating many of the conditions which are pointed up in the Master Plan's neighborhood analysis.

To quote the Master Plan: "Warren borough has very little vacant land area suitable for future development. Extensive changes in its development patterns can only occur through re-use of existing developed land." The future land use plan has defined and consolidated the various functional uses into a single unified pattern."

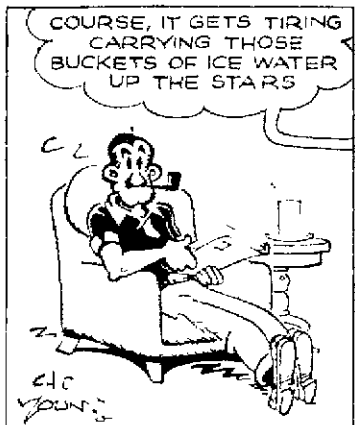

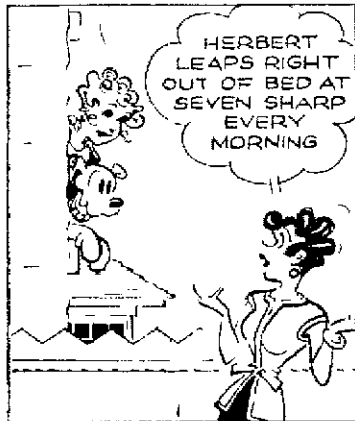

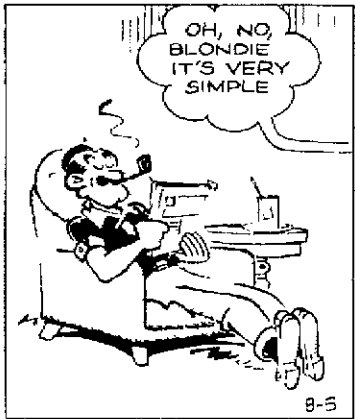

Only two plans have been set forth to "re-use existing developed land." One is urban renewal, which sees the Liberty Street Project almost completed (in an area not designated as "dilapidated" or "deteriorating". The other is through borough council action, which so far has used the master plan as a basis for extending Conewango avenue through a dead-end at Pennsylvania avenue to Lexington avenue (which barely brushes a deteriorating area as marked in the master plan).

What does the future hold? There is only one project immediately seen (discarding urban renewal, which is bogged down in funds for riot control, urban housing renewal, and the Vietnam war). That is housing for the elderly, which — if borough council goes along — plans to enter the Water at Fourth streets area to develop some 35 to 40 units for elderly housing rental units. The photo of the house on Water Street (see next page) is one of the buildings which has been obtained for the housing project. It was picked up at a tax sale.

Olive Hoff, Guest Columnist

You don't have to depend on a crystal ball to find out things to come in fall fashions. Better than magic is to learn from Women's Wear Daily, the "Bible of the Fashion World."

What about colors? The forecast of important new colors this fall are brown, orange red, brass and gold.

Many new details for the fall of 1967 highlight the fashion silhouettes. New versions of accepted basics will continue changing only in color.

The coat and dress costume is important. Coats can be in one fabric, such as a horizontal stripe worsted, mated with a dress highlighting one of the colors. It is simple lines that give this costume elegance. Fur trim in jacket and dress, with longer jacket, is prominent.

One new fashion trend is the chain belt—which gives the smart hardware look—a separate chain belt worn loosely at the normal waist or low on the hips. The fashion-wise say it is "very-good."

Belted sweaters are very much in the scene.

Women's Wear Daily reports an unusual fashion show in Los Angeles. It was for teachers and representatives of the school system. Under auspices of Seventeen Magazine, manufacturers and retailers conducted the seminar. This cooperation between educators and the fashion world is aimed at some meeting of minds on what attire is suitable for school wear. Most of what the teachers saw in fall fashions met with their approval. "The big bang-up, as the teachers see it," says Women's Wear Daily, "is hem length." School dress codes vary from district to district, but most settle on one definite requirement, that hemlines "shall be of reasonable length and must approach the knee."

The new fashion trends can be seen already in the displays of local stores.

HELEN LEE designs a pint dress for little girls in a madly grown-up pattern of black orchids on cotton bark cloth. Skinny-shaped with short pants peeking out below the hemline.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

DEAR FOLKS:

Many people complain that when they raise their windows the breeze doesn't come in.

If that's your problem, too, take a close look at your screens. When there's an accumulation of dust on them the breeze cannot get through—especially in the summer-time when you need it the most.

Besides, a screen which has dust sticking on it dirties up your windows each time the wind blows or it rains.

So next time you clean your windows, be sure and WASH the screens, too. Just prop each screen against something, such as a tree, fence or clothesline pole—not slanted too much—but at a tiny off-angle.

Mix a cup of sudsy ammonia with a gallon of water in your plastic wastebasket. Pour some of this solution across the top of the screen. When it starts to dribble down towards the bottom, use a scrub brush and brush from side to side. As soon as you reach the bottom, work your brush up and down. Next, turn the screen over and do the same thing on the other side. Then put your garden hose on fine spray and starting at the top again, wash all the bubbles away.

Grubers Hold Family Reunion

The fourth annual reunion of the Gruber family was held on Sunday, July 30, at the summer home of Charles Gruber, Dunn's Eddy, with 38 members present.

Main highlights were the delicious picnic dinner, swimming, boating, fishing and horseshoe pitching. Members were present from Warren, Sugar Grove, Lander, Russell, Sinclairville and Mayville. Oldest member present was Mrs. Pearl Kabin. Marie Gruber caught the most fish.

A special message was sent by all those present to the Gruber twins, Donnie and Ronnie, serving in the armed forces.

After rinsing well, let your screens dry in the sun and you'll have the cleanest ones in town.

Don't mix bleaches or any other product with this ammonia water. The ammonia removes the carbon, and that's the stuff on your screens which catches and holds the dust. Once the carbon is dissolved by the sudsy ammonia water, the dust will float away in your rinse water.

If you live in an upstairs apartment, ask your sweet husband to remove the screens and put them in the bathtub or shower. But be sure to place a bath towel underneath first so they will not scratch your tub or shower stall.

Just follow the same directions to clean them except turn on the shower to rinse away.

If you do this in your shower stall or bathtub, be sure to read the caution directions on all ammonia bottles. I fully recommend open windows and plenty of ventilation when you are using ammonia.

No happy clean screens to all of you darlings.

DEAR HELOISE

My husband takes his lunch to work and likes to have iced tea to drink with it in the summertime.

I freeze a pint of it each day for him, adding the lemon and sugar before I freeze it.

By the time he is ready to eat his lunch most of it is melted and he has a big container of iced tea all ready to drink.

Of course I freeze the tea in a plastic container and he carries it in his lunch box.

Helen Kispark

Red coffee is good, too, for a change.

DEAR HELOISE

I got up and fixed my husband's breakfast read the front page, drank my coffee, glanced over more paper and fixed some toast.

I looked at the upset room, drank another cup of coffee, turned the newspaper over and there you were as bright as a dollar. Don't you ever get tired?

Bye bye I'm off to bed for awhile as work always waits.

Julia Prazier

Honey, the photographer who took that picture made me put on powder and lipstick and comb my hair! Which is most unusual for me. Right now I need all three.

DEAR HELOISE

I keep a clean towel and a fresh change of play clothes in a plastic laundry basket by the back door.

When my three-year-old is through playing in her wading pool she comes in, removes the clean clothes and towel and stands in the laundry basket until I come to dry her off and dress her.

The wet mess is all right there in the basket. No more wet muddy footprints to the bathroom.

The basket is easy to rinse out and handy to carry the wet swim suit to the laundry room.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

On these hot days I put my 8-month-old son in my seldom used turkey roaster, on the kitchen floor I add a toy and about an inch of water, then slip a towel underneath it unless I plan to mop.

He's cool, happy and in view while I do the dishes.

That same roaster makes a perfect traveling bathtub at the beach, too.

DEAR HELOISE

Before you throw away that old steel wool scouring pad, snip it into little pieces with your favorite but dull pair of scissors and so how handy it makes them.

One only needs to take a quick glance about to realize that we live in a pleasure mad age. America is on the "go" in the pursuit of pleasure. Indeed we have become "lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God" (II Timothy 3:4). The world that once was shaken by power of God, today is shaken by a pleasure crazed society. Across our great land there has come a lack of love for God and His holy precepts. Indeed we are plagued with a perverted love; loving the "creature more than the Creator" (Romans 1:25).

This perversion of love has not only gripped a sinful world, but surely has taken hold upon the church. A few weeks ago while visiting in the southland I was shown a church which has moved its morning worship service to 8:30 in the morning so that the worship of God need not interfere with the pleasures the people wished to indulge in on the Lord's day. Another reality is that the average church member in our land would rather watch three or four hours of television in an evening than spend thirty minutes on his knees in prayer interceding for lost souls, simply because it is more pleasurable. We have laid aside our holy standards and convictions in order that we might partake freely of the pleasures of this world. God have mercy on us! We are those "having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof" (II Timothy 3:5).

Godliness isn't derived an hour in church on Sunday morning, or from any other religious form to which we might adhere. Rather godliness, which is actually God-like-ness, comes from having our lives transformed by the blood of Jesus Christ; from being filled with the Holy Ghost; and then from daily walking with Him by living a life that is holy, pure, unspotted by the things of this world, and a life in which Christ is King and Lord of All. For all of our godliness is as filthy rags if it has not the power of God in it, that power is the Holy Spirit. Trying to live a godly life without being "filled with all the fulness of God" (Ephesians 3:19), is like trying to empty the ocean with a tea cup. We need to shed our "cloak of righteousness" and come back to God on our knees seeking the power of God!

Pleasure to most people is in doing the things they want to do, fulfilling their own selfish, sensual desires and wishes. But what happens when the show is over? Are we fully satisfied? Does it give us peace of mind and soul? Is this after all really true pleasure? Many like to believe it is, but for the true Christian it will never do. He knows another pleasure, that which he has found in doing the one thing which he was created for, glorifying God through daily doing His will. And that, praise God, satisfies completely, and brings perfect peace to mind and soul!

While the world about us rushes on, let us stop in the next few moments, get quiet before Him, and let the searchlight of Heaven examine our souls. Have we become "lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God?" Remember John wrote, "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in Him" (I John 2:15). Today you are either a child of hell or a child of God. You either love the Lord and hate the world, or you love the world and hate the Lord. "Ye cannot serve God and mammon!" Dear friend, if God has spoken to your heart and you realize that you have a perverted love, won't you kneel right now, right where you are and pray until Heaven has met the need of your soul? Please, don't settle for just "a form of godliness" when we can by God's grace have His very best through the precious Holy Spirit indwelling our hearts and lives!

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your definition of a "Methodist handshake" brought back some wonderful memories. Many years ago, when I was sweet 16, a handsome chap who was a couple of years older, asked me to go to the downtown recreation center. (In those days, this was considered a very special date.)

We played table tennis, did a little imitation tap dancing, and harmonized with the piano player who had a handlebar moustache. After a strawberry soda, we waltzed to phonograph music and called it the end of a wonderful evening. He took me home on the streetcar and I was in seventh heaven.

When we reached the front door he asked if he could kiss me good night. I replied, "No. My mother wouldn't think it was very ladylike."

He looked at me in astonishment and asked, "What kind of a mother do you have, anyway?" I replied, "My mother is a Methodist." He smiled and answered, "O.K., then. Give me a Methodist handshake."

I shook his hand and shut the door. We moved away shortly after that and I never saw him again, but I will always remember that wonderful "Methodist handshake." I had not heard the expression in 40 years and then it popped up in your column—so thanks, for reviving some beautiful memories.—OHIO

DEAR OHIO: Thank you for a delightful letter. If more 1967 evenings ended with a Methodist handshake my mail would be a lot lighter.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a woman in my middle 20's who learned awfully late what life was all about. Last winter I became ill and lost my job. A man I knew slightly took an interest in me. He helped out with the rent, paid my doctor bills and brought me groceries.

Gradually we drifted into an intimate relationship. He moved in and we are now living together. This man is everything I want in a husband. I love him very much and he says he loves me, but whenever I mention marriage he says he can't afford it.

How can I get him to make this arrangement legal? I want a family.—WIFE WITH NO NAME

DEAR NO NAME: Stop begging. Tell the guy to move out immediately and let him know it's an order—not a request. If you aren't back at work, you should be. Inform him there will be no more playing house until you are his legal wife.

If he doesn't come around to your way of thinking, within three months, write him off and find someone whose ideas are more like yours.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We have a summer cottage and we enjoy company. But we can't afford to entertain people around the clock seven days a week.

Water skiing is the big thing in this area but some folks don't realize how much it costs to run a boat hour after hour. The oil and gas bills are murder. We hate to mention it because it might sound cheap. Any suggestions?—TAPPED OUT

DEAR TAPPED: When you feel a certain group has had enough—simply say, "Sorry, we're out of petrol, kiddies," and don't fill the tank until they leave.

'Snow White' Now Playing At the Library Theater

If Walt Disney's cartoon feature, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," were to be produced today in the same meticulous manner of the original, 1937 production, the two million dollar picture would cost in the neighborhood of ten million.

The big difference, cost-wise, would be man hours. During the mid-1930's, Disney Studios had more than 750 animators, ink and painters, background artists, story and special effects men and skilled artisans. All of their talents were concentrated on the classic cartoon story about a beautiful princess who becomes the intended victim of a wicked queen, and enlists the help of seven lovable dwarfs.

Then, as now, a full-length cartoon feature required more than three years to produce. However, new techniques have eliminated much of the detail work, and key animators have become much more proficient with experience, requiring less men to accomplish the job.

Xerography, a magnetic process that transfers original drawings to celluloid, has done much to streamline production. Yet the big difference is the seasoned talents of the key animators, many of whom have worked for the Disney Studio for more than thirty years.

In color by Technicolor, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" is being re-released during its 30th anniversary by

Bonavita To Attend Harrisburg Meet

Pennsylvania's district attorneys will meet in Harrisburg next Monday for a special conference called by Gov. Shafer to discuss the problems law enforcement officers may face in the future regarding disturbances and riots throughout the Commonwealth.

According to Samuel Bonavita, Warren County district attorney, it is the hope of Gov. Shafer that the special conference will provide an opportunity for an exchange of ideas as to measures to be taken in the event disturbances and riots should break out in the Commonwealth. This is the first time in some 20 years a Pennsylvania governor has called for such a conference, Bonavita said.

Because the local district attorney expects to attend this conference, he requested the court to change the August session of the Grand Jury from Monday to another date specified by the court.

Judge Alexander Flick Jr. in honoring this request has ordered the change be made. He designated Thursday, Aug. 10 as the new date the Grand Jury session will be held.

Tidioute Dedicating Overlooks Thursday

By Lenore McIntyre

Picturesque Warren county has an abundance of scenic views which thrill the heart of the beholder, local or visiting, and challenge the skill of the camera enthusiast. The most recent vista to be developed is in the Tidioute area.

High on Bucktown Hill above Tidioute, a picnic site has been created by the U. S. Forest Service which includes two overlooks. One gives the viewer a bird's-eye sweep of the upper half of Tidioute, nestled among the hills along the Allegheny river.

The second overlook, to the north and east, encompasses a panorama of hills, valleys, winding river and highway. Even to those familiar with the area, the newly-developed vistas add an exciting dimension to the scenery below.

To reach the Tidioute valley overlooks, you leave Route 62 just below the Allegheny river bridge at Tidioute and take L. R. 337 up over Bucktown Hill. This is a good black-top road, albeit a little narrow, curvy and hilly.

About two miles up the hill, and to your left, the picnic area is located with the parking space for 40 cars abutting the highway. Twenty-five picnic units have been constructed in this woodland setting, each complete with table and benches, grill, and refuse can.

Chip-covered trails lead through the woods to the brow of the hill where trees and underbrush have been cleared to provide the breathtaking view of the valley below.

The area is strictly for day use only. It is not an overnight camping site or trailer park and no tent pads are provided. Also, there is no water available yet and picnickers should take an adequate supply.

The area has been developed through the efforts of the Tidioute Area Chamber of Commerce, which also prevailed upon the Pennsylvania Department of Highways to construct the roadside rest about two miles north of Tidioute on Route 62. The roadside rest has been in operation for a number of years and is not to be confused with the new overlook just completed.

James King, representing the Tidioute Chamber, began negotiating with the national forest service officials about two years ago. He was able to persuade them that this was an ideal spot for a scenic vista and picnic site. Work began about a year ago.

The approximately 20 to 25 acres of Allegheny National Forest land was densely forested by conifers and deciduous trees native to the area, predominantly hemlock and broad leaf oak. The first project, then, was clearing and preparing the site.

This was accomplished by a forestry crew of eight to ten young men from the Blue Jay Job Corps camp at Marienville under the leadership of Bill Skipper. When they finished the picnic sites and vistas, a carpentry and woodworking crew from Blue Jay moved in to construct the tables and benches and toilet facilities, and put in place the grills and garbage containers. This group of from six to eight youths was supervised by John Weaver.

It required approximately 53 man-months of labor to complete the project, although this included transportation time from Blue Jay to the site. Occasionally the crews camped overnight in the area. The cost of materials and equipment rental totaled $12,500.

Murray Hartshorn, center director at Blue Jay, and deputy director of works Lee Sutton, also of Blue Jay, were in charge of the project after it had gained the approval and go-ahead signal of the National Forest Service. Lee Kelly, forest supervisor, merits much recognition for his cooperation with James King and the Tidioute Area Chamber of Commerce in securing the project.

Dedication ceremonies will be held at the overlook on Thursday at 7 p. m. A number of forestry officials will participate in the program, which is being arranged by James King. A dinner for invited guests only will be held at 5:30 p. m., but the public is welcome to bring picnic baskets.

Minehart Calls Attention to Forest Slaughter

The slaughter of wildlife on Pennsylvania highways is deplored by state treasurer Thomas Z. Minehart in his report for July.

He quotes significant comments from the current August, 1967 "Pennsylvania Game News":

"Erie County has had its first recorded bear kill—a 200 pound male. Bears are conspicuous by their absence in this extreme northwestern county, but this wandering bruin somehow found his way onto Route 89, near the home of Charles Haag, a few miles outside of North East. About 2 a.m. he was clobbered by a passing truck, according to district game protector Ronald Sutherland. What a way for a fine game animal to go."

Clearfield County—Deputy game protector L. Stiffler reports: "During 1966 I removed the following game animals from area highways: Deer: 73 does, 25 bucks; rabbits, 72; opossums, 85; raccoons 18; skunks, 38; muskrat, 1; grouse, 11; groundhogs, 18; porcupines, 4; red fox, 1; gray squirrel, 1. Also, 12 cats and 10 dogs."

Minehart observes that carnage on highways of Pennsylvania and the nation is regularly deplored by Automobile Clubs, Bureau of Highway Safety, police officials, and others with responsibility in this field.

Another big thrill is seeing your art history books come to life, she says.

All is modern, clean and disciplined in the principal market of Irkutsk as shown in this scene from "Siberia: A Day in Irkutsk," one-hour color special to be presented the second time on the NBC Television Network Wednesday, August 9 (9-10 p. m.). An NBC News production crew penetrated 3,000 miles deep into the interior of Siberia to film this program, designed to acquaint Americans with a strange country.

TOP VIEW voting on the summer replacement, "Coronet Blue," indicates that CBS had a winner: Coronet Blue, CBS, 70.2%, very good. The Saint, NBC, 62.0%, good. Lucy Desi Comedy Hour, CBS, 49.8%, average. Steve Allen Comedy Hour, CBS, 40.1%, below average. Two years ago, CBS dropped plans to feature "Coronet Blue" in the '65-'66 season. This summer, to recoup some of their costs, CBS is running the few completed episodes. We trust, along with many of our readers, CBS will go on with the program. Your foretold vote indicates "Coronet Blue" deserves a full season run. Today's ballot winds up voting on summer replacements. New readers, please join in this nationwide newspaper TV survey.

READER SPEAK
Dear TV: I just read "Coronet Blue" is being taken off September 4. It is one of the best shows to come on TV in a long time. Can't anything be done to save this truly good show? - Coronet Blue Fan, Springfield, Mass.

PERSONALITIES

Jay North, television's devilish "Dennis the Menace", is growing up! A veteran actor at 15, the young man who personified video's marvelously malevolent moppet has matured into a handsome talented teenager. And Jay has moved to a more mature television series, one which pits him, and an equally clean-cut Indian boy and an elephant, against everything the sprawling Indian sub-continent can throw at them. His new series, "Maya," will be seen on NBC-TV Saturday evenings at 7:30.

Jay was born Aug. 3, 1951 in North Hollywood and his career began at six because, in his words, "I saw television and I wanted to be on it." It all began when his mother took him to the "Queen For a Day" series and after meeting the director Jay soon found himself fingerpainting for a commercial. One year and a dozen commercials later, he was selected from 500 applicants for the stellar role in "Dennis."

When Jay's growing frame and changing voice brought an end to the highly rated series he made the transition to guest roles on other programs and to feature films. He has appeared in numerous dramatic series and variety specials, including "Man From Uncle" and the Red Skelton and Ed Sullivan shows.

He made his movie debut in 1959, appearing opposite Mickey Rooney in "The Big Operator" and in 1964 starred in "Zebra in the Kitchen." Then in 1965 he starred in "Maya," on which his new TV series is based.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR SATURDAY, AUGUST 5, 1967

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—You have an excellent chance of finding the information you need if you go to the right sources. Your intuition will be helpful in this connection.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—New techniques, novel ventures, unusual propositions could bring real advancement now—if all the facts are known and possibilities explored. Your innate keenness should be a big aid.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Some unique offerings indicated. Consider each separately, meditating, deliberating before accepting. When sure, be quick to act, so as not to lose the best. You can set some new records.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Above-average opportunities, but you may have to seek some out for yourself. If gracious and tactful (as you usually are) you can gain any assistance you need.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Do not be carried away with false fervor and/or extravagantly presented offerings. Calculate; use your best judgment. Your successes could come through routine measures.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Relations with the public, organizational work, special events, advanced projects highly favored. Capitalize on your versatility. Your vitality should be at a peak.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Many advantages indicated. Put forth your finest efforts; emphasize your alert thinking, endurance. With sure-footedness, your paths will grow easier, brighter.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—Flavor your usual direct approach with discreet deference, respect for other's opinions, suggestions. You will achieve most by being moderate, performing without pressure.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Unusual situations will now call for your top-flight performance. Sudden shifts in circumstances should not deter you from pursuing meaningful goals. Keep plugging. You will win.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—A pleasant day. Capitalize on your know-how and step out to make new records. All good efforts will pay off.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Influences now tend to distract you from duties and obligations so a "first" and perhaps a difficult task; Keep yourself in line—but without anxiety.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Don't go against present trends or you might find yourself completely out of step with others. Some of your future objectives are taking shape.

YOU BORN TODAY have a fine intellect and are usually active physically. You are generous, artistic, earnest, ready to give service wherever needed, but revolt against persons who try to take advantage of you. You do especially well in businesses dealing with many persons. Once you overcome fault-finding and inflexibility of thought, you stride swiftly toward high and estimable goals and position. How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

DROWN PROOFING

Swimming is fun, relaxing, and good exercise. All the larger muscles are put into play without bearing the weight of the body. In this respect, buoyancy of the water helps prevent overexertion. It is an excellent sport for people of all ages. Knowing how to swim may save your life or that of a companion.

Approximately 7,000 persons will drown this summer in the United States. Some of these tragedies will involve swimmers who overestimated their ability or took unnecessary chances. Skin or scuba divers who are untrained, careless, or unfit physically or emotionally for the sport will be among the fatalities.

The growing popularity of water sports makes it imperative to be able to swim. All swimmers and boating enthusiasts should learn "drown proofing." This technique is based on the fact that the body does not submerge completely, even when no effort is made to stay afloat. A person can remain in the water for six hours without undue fatigue by taking a breath and allowing himself to sink to his natural level of buoyancy. In 10 seconds, he resurfaces and exhales. He repeats the process until rescued.

The good swimmer who drowns for no apparent reason may have had a heart attack, epileptic seizure, leg cramp, or dizziness from Meniere's syndrome. Over-sensitivity to cold is an unusual cause. This physical allergy occurs when the swimmer ventures into cold water. Hivelike reactions ensue and breathing is affected when the lining of the windpipe swells.

One cause for drowning has received too little publicity. Some swimmers have found that they can remain under water for long periods by taking several deep breaths before diving. So much carbon dioxide is exhaled that the compulsion to breathe is lost. The brain lacks oxygen and the individual loses consciousness. When this occurs on land the individual collapses, but if he is under water he may drown.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

TOMORROW: Lightning Dangers.

VENTILATION AND COLDS

F. R. writes: Does sleeping in a room with no ventilation make a person more susceptible to colds?

REPLY: No, because most respiratory infections, such as the common cold, are caught from other people through direct contact, inhalation of contaminated air, or handling infected objects. In this respect, a poorly ventilated room is more uncomfortable than conducive to disease.

CRAMPING IN LEGS

P. Q. writes: Could diabetes cause leg cramps? I never had them before I developed this disease.

REPLY: Yes, because diabetes may be associated with poor circulation or neuritis. Bring this to your physician's attention, for something can be done to relieve cramping. There are other causes of leg cramps, however.

Old Fashioned Family Day Planned at McKean Co. Fair

The second annual Old Fashioned Family Day is scheduled for Thursday, August 10, at the McKean County Fair in Smethport. The day has many special events for everyone in the family. Originating last year the day was one of the biggest days of the fair. Additional new events are planned for this year's program. Most of the events take place in front of the grandstand and begin at 1 p.m.

There will be bicycle races around the track and shorter tri-cycle races in front of the grandstand. All during the afternoon boys and girls will be trying to climb a greased fifteen foot pole for a ten dollar bill on top. The women will be throwing a rolling pin to determine who has the best throwing arm in the county. The boys and girls will get an opportunity to eat a whole pie in the pie eating contest. Other racing events are the boys and girls running races, a sack race and a three-legged race.

Tractor driving skills will be tested in a contest that has four divisions: Boys 16 and under—Girls 16 and under—Men 17 and over and Women 17 and over. This contest will start at 10:30 Thursday morning and the winner from each division will be in the Championship runoff in front of the grandstand in the afternoon.

There will be a dress judging contest open to anyone who would like to test their skills at evaluating the construction of home sewn dresses.

The artists and would be artists will be able to enter the sketching contest. This contest is divided into a Junior and Senior division. Each person to bring his or her own sketching materials.

Another event for the young people will be the frog jumping contest. Each contestant must bring his or her own frog.

A new event this year and the last event of the competitions will be the tug-of-war over the pond. This event is open to five men teams, with the last dry team winning the cash award.

All the events have cash premiums for the winners.

The Family Day activities will continue in the evening with a parade and Flat Quarter Horse Racing in front of the grandstand.

After the horse racing there will be an Old Fashioned Square Dance open to all from 8 to 10:30. This square dance will be held right in front of the grandstand on the track. The music will be provided by Happy, Ed and Jack.

The chairman for the Family Day are Charles Irons and James McKean of Smethport.

Entries for the various family day events are open until Tuesday, August 8. Whether you come to join in the fun or just to watch the Old Fashioned Family Day will be a day to remember at the McKean County Fair.
